

Andey Tuttle

Starkey p151 #14

Are You Listening?

“Do you think they can hear us?”

“I do not know. They might not hear the same way that we do. But they can definitely understand us.”

“That’s bizarre.

“There are many bizarre things about their lives and the way they experience the world we created.”

“Do they understand who we are?”

“No. They do not. But they understand we’re talking. And they might be starting to understand that we are talking to them.”

“Oh. So I can talk to them directly now?”

“Have patience. They have much to learn if they are ever going to join us and be able to look back on the world the way we are now.

“Well how can we help them get here?”

“That is not for us to say. The journey to eternity is a long one, and it is a path that everyone must walk by themselves.”

“They must be getting close if we’re able to talk to them, right?”

“I would imagine so. But we could also be resetting all of their actions to this point by revealing ourselves to them. It is not for you or me to say where they are on their journey.”

“I want to talk to them so badly. I just want to offer some small piece of advice.”

“I suppose one message couldn’t hurt too badly. Go ahead and talk to them.”

“Thank you. If you can hear me, it’s time for me to help you along your journey into eternity.”

“Are you listening?”